

Qualcomm has both Avaya Communication Manager and Cisco Call Manager in their environment. The PBX's were networked together via QSIG to provide voice mail for all users whether they were on an Avaya or Cisco phone set.

The reason that two unique PBX/ dial-plans weren't created is because the current Cisco Call Manager was not at a supported release level for Unified Messaging.